SCIENCE ALIVE!

All kinds of awesome.

This FREE hands-on science event is presented in partnership with the GFG Alliance, our principal sponsor. For the first time in Whyalla, Marty McBubble's Scientific Bubble Show is expected to be a huge hit and there will be 40 Questacon exhibits, roaming Daleks, robotics workshops, native animals, a Hitachi electron microscope, inflatable planetariums, slime-making, electric circuits and more. The aim is to show how much fun it is to learn more about the world around us and UniSA will have some great info on their study options.

The Science Alive! Facebook page (sciencealivesa) has updates and program details.

Port Augusta will host a similar Science Alive! satellite event on Sunday 28th October.
